THEATRE CAL AND OTHERWISE.

News and Comment of Stage Matters and Other Gossip.

Maude Adams has appeared more than seven hundred times in "The Little Minister."

Mrs. Leslie Carter will give her great production of "Zaza" at the Grand opera house in Cincinnati next week.

The Midsummer Minstrel Company, of Winchester, will give a show in that city on March 16th. Saxton's band will furnish music for the performance.

John Fox, Jr., the author, delivered an address one evening last week before the Contemporary Club in Indianapolis. Mr. Fox was the guest of James Whitcomb Riley while in Indianapolis.

Manager Scott has booked the great play "The Children of the Ghetto" for Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee on March 16th and 17th. The cast is a large one, headed by Wilson Lackaye, who was the original Svengali in "Trilby."

Eleanor Duse's daughter has never seen her mother act, and her mother intends she never shall. She wants her daughter to be a cultured, thinking woman, but to keep off the stage. Lillian Russell's daughter is about 16 years old now, and is at school. She has talent, it is said, but her mother does not want her to adopt a stage career.

Mr. Creston Clarke and Miss Prince, supported by their company of players, gave an excellent production of "The Ragged Cavalier," at the opera house Thursday night, and won a firm hold on the local theatre-goers. The absence of the orchestra was severely commented upon by many of the opera house patrons. Attractions like Creston Clarke certainly deserve an orchestra.

The crusade started in New York against the drama "Sapho" is attracting wide attention. In New York it has caused the arrest of Olga Nethersole, who is playing the piece, and the notoriety has resulted in the theatre being packed every night. The trial will occur this week. The play is certainly the most immoral drama now being acted in legitimate theatres. The "Sapho" crusade has also caused the book to be barred from the libraries in Louisville, Indianapolis, and other cities. In Philadelphia last week a book dealer was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for selling "Sapho." The Indianapolis library has also declared against Hardy's "Tess of the d'Urbervilles" and "Jude, the Obscure," and James Lane Allen's "Summer in Arcady." The book dealers, however, are making money off that class of the reading public that want such books.

GENTLEMAN.—For about 10 years I was affected with Constipation, indigestion and Stomach and Bowel trouble. I tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi and soon found relief. After using one fifty cent bottle I am now well and can eat anything that comes on the table without suffering pain and distress in my stomach and I can cheerfully recommend it to anyone that has any bowel or stomach trouble. If you are afflicted try it and you will be fully convinced.

Very truly yours,

It is absolutely useless to expect a surgical operation to cure cancer, or any other blood disease. The cruelty of such treatment is illustrated in the alarming number of deaths which result from it. The disease is in the blood, and hence can not be cut out. Nine times out of ten the surgeon's knife only hastens death.

My son had a most malignant Cancer, for which the doctors said an operation was the only hope. The operation was a severe one, as it was necessary to cut down to the bone and amputate it. Before a great while the Cancer returned, and began to grow rapidly. We gave him many remedies with little relief, and finally, upon the advice of a friend, decided to try S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). The second bottle he began to improve. After twenty bottles had been taken, the Cancer disappeared entirely, and he was cured. The cure was a permanent one, for he is now seventeen years old, and has never had a sign of the disease since.

MONEY IN TREASURY

Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars Paid by Jefferson County.

No Clash Yet Between the Two Factions of the State Government, Although Both Are in Full Operation—The Contest Cases.

Frankfort, Ky., March 3.—The two factions of the state government are proceeding each in full operation, but with nothing approaching a clash pending the litigation over the offices.

The treasury of the democratic faction of the government was replenished by payment into it of about $25,000 from officials of Jefferson county. The democratic officials think that the example set by the Jefferson county officers will be followed by democratic officers in a majority of counties where they are in control, and that in a few days they will have enough money to pay current expenses.

The agreed case involving the contests over the offices of governor and lieutenant governor is being argued at Louisville before Judge Field on a demurrer filed by Taylor's attorneys to the petition of Beckham.

The court of appeals, at its sitting here, entered an order postponing the argument docket till the spring term, which begins in April. The order of the chief justice does not give the reason for this action, but merely states that the judges will hold their consultations, at which cases will be decided, as usual, and that the court will convene on the bench whenever the occasion demands it. In democratic circles it is said this action was taken by the court on account of stories that the lives of two of the judges had been threatened.

Louisville, Ky., March 3.—Argument for the cases involving the title to the offices of governor and lieutenant governor was begun before Judge Fields in the circuit court Friday. Counsel for Gov. Beckham, President Pro Tem Carter, and Gen. John B. Castleman, democrats, filed a demurrer and motion to strike out the answer and reply of W. S. Taylor and John Marshall, the republican incumbents, after which an order of argument was agreed upon, and Attorney David W. Fairleigh opened for the republicans.

Frankfort, Ky., March 3.—In the house Friday afternoon Representatives Cantrell and Klar, democrats, came near being involved in a personal encounter on the floor. Only the intervention of a dozen members kept them apart. Cantrell, in his speech in behalf of Contestant Combs, from Madison county, claimed that the opponents of the McChord railroad bill was fighting against seating Combs because he was known to favor the bill. Klar denounced this charge as untrue. Whereupon Cantrell left his seat and attempted to strike Klar. Members rushed between them and the speaker declared the house adjourned amid great disorder. Klar later apologized, saying his remarks had been misconstrued and trouble was averted.

Frankfort, Ky., March 4.—The McChord railroad anti-extortion bill, which is on the house calendar, having already passed the senate, was an issue in all of the proceedings in that branch of the legislature, though the measure was not reported from the committee till late in the afternoon session.

At the morning session the house took up the contested election case of Stafford (rep.) vs. Letterle (dem.), from Louisville, and after some debate adopted the minority report which allowed Letterle to retain his seat. A strictly party vote was brought out in this case.

REV. JOHN HENNESSY DEAD.

The Archbishop of Dubuque succumbed to a Third Stroke of Paralysis of the Brain Sunday.

Dubuque, Ia., March 5.—Most Rev. John Hennessy, first archbishop of Dubuque, died Sunday afternoon, aged 74 years. In March of last year the archbishop was stricken with partial paralysis of the brain. On February 15 last he was again stricken and Friday night was seized with another stroke. When Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, arrived Sunday morning the sufferer showed signs of recognition, though unable to speak. He then began to sink and at 2 o'clock passed away quietly. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, will pronounce the eulogy.

Ex-President Cleveland's Illness.
Princeton, N. J., March 3.—The reports of the illness of ex-President Grover Cleveland, according to his physician, have been exaggerated. He says Mr. Cleveland has had another attack of rheumatism which has lately confined him to his house. There is a feeling in Princeton, however, that Mr. Cleveland's health is not as robust as it was some months ago. The only information given out at the Cleveland house is that the ex-president is not seriously ill.

Hiding in the Mountains.
Chattanooga, Tenn., March 2.—Deputies here have received a letter from Blairsville, Ga., stating that Wm. Jones, who murdered Chief of Police Hanna at Dalton, Ga., several months ago, is hiding in the mountains among relatives.

Troops Returning From Porto Rico.
San Juan, Porto Rico, March 2.—Four troops of the 5th United States cavalry are under orders to return to the United States. Native troops are now being recruited to fill their places.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Great Destruction of Property and Considerable Loss of Life in Southern Mexico.

Guadalajara, Mex., March 3.—The recent earthquakes throughout southern Mexico did much greater damage than was indicated by the earlier reports. News from remote coast and mountain towns has just reached Guadalajara, the stories of great destruction of property and considerable loss of life are told. The severe seismic shocks had a remarkable effect on the sea, causing it to roll inland, and covering the country for a distance of over one mile from the beach. This tidal inundation occurred three times in rapid succession, and every movable thing in its path was swept away.

A number of small coast villages were destroyed, and there was some loss of life, but no definite information has been received as to the number of persons drowned. This tidal inundation was most severe on the Pacific coast, extending from Acapulco to Manzanillo. Several of the mountain towns in the state of Michoacan suffered severely. The earthquake shocks destroyed a number of houses in the towns of Ostula, Coalecman, Coachuaxara, Aguililla and Pomaro. Five persons were caught under falling walls in Pomaro and killed.

PASSED THE HOUSE.

The Porto Rico Tariff Bill Becomes a Law—President Issues a Proclamation.

Washington, March 3.—The president sent a message to congress Friday recommending the appropriation of the monies which has been received for the customs from Porto Rico since the United States took possession under the treaty, to be used for general purposes for the benefit of the Porto Ricans. The sums, approximately, amount to $2,000,000. The reading of the message was greeted with republican applause in the house, and Mr. Cannon asked unanimous consent for the immediate passage of a bill to carry out the recommendation. There was no objection, and it was agreed that there should be 20 minutes' debate on a side.

Mr. Cannon moved the previous question on the Porto Rican bill, and this prevailed on a standing vote, 143 to 119. A yeas and nays vote followed. Mr. Bailey's motion to commit the Porto Rican bill was lost, 133 to 149. The vote was taken by yeas and nays on the passage of the bill.

The Cannon Porto Rican bill passed the house by a vote of 162 to 107.

VETERINARY SERVICE.

An Effort Being Made to Have One Established in the Army—Senate Bill Introduced.

Washington, March 3.—Senator Kenney has introduced an amendment to the army appropriation bill providing for the appointment of a veterinary corps in the army. The amendment authorizes a chief veterinarian, with the rank of colonel; an assistant chief, with the rank of major; four veterinarians, with rank of captains; ten assistants, with rank of first lieutenants, and 20 assistants, with rank of second lieutenants.

Advocates of the bill claim that the United States stands alone in having no veterinary service. Gen. Miles, Gen. Merritt, Gen. Brooke and many other eminent officers endorse the measure.

Treaty Copies Delayed.

Washington, March 3.—It has been decided that the failure of the exchange copies of the Samoan arbitration treaty to reach Washington by next Wednesday shall not be permitted to prevent the consummation of the convention. Although the treaty requires the exchange to be effected by the 1st inst., it is now believed that the requirements can be fully met by the unique method of a telegraphic exchange.

Too Many Hangings in One Day.

New Iberia, La., March 3.—Reuben Cately and Hipolite Brown, Negroes, were hanged here for the murder of Martial Sorrel, a storekeeper, near Oliver, La., last August. Chas Brown and Henry Green were principals in the murder and were also to have been hanged at the same time, but it was considered too big a job to hang all four at one time and Gov. Foster resented these two.

Eight Buildings Burned.

Vienna, Ill., March 3.—Fire destroyed a business block of eight buildings, entailing a loss of $70,000. The principal losers were: W. E. Beal, opera house, $14,000; The Fair, $15,000; J. Rosenberg, store and residence, $12,900; J. E. Ilkin, store and stock, $9,000; Michael Knaehel, two buildings, $7,000.

Fatni Fight on a Depot Platform.

Yoakum, Tex., March 3.—In a fight here on the depot platform C. W. Ranckin had his throat cut, dying almost instantly, and J. L. Pickens was badly cut in both arms and on the body. Pickens is a train auditor on the San Antonio & Aransas Pass railway, with headquarters in San Antonio, where he has a family.

Flood Subsiding.

Philadelphia, March 3.—The flood situation in Central Pennsylvania and in the anthracite coal region which sections suffered greatly from swollen rivers and creeks caused by heavy rains and melting ice and snow, is considerably improved.

Murder Over a Match.

Atlanta, Ga., March 3.—Edward Brooks was shot and killed by W. L. Adkiss in a Whitehall street military store. The two clerks had some words over the refusal of Brooks to give his co-worker a match.

THE CUBAN SITUATION

Natives Are Not Preparing for an Uprising as Expected.

Recommendations Made By Gen. Jas. H. Wilson, Military Governor of the Department of Matanzas-Santa Clara, in an Interview.

Matanzas, Cuba, March 5.—Cen. Jas. H. Wilson, military governor of the department of Matanzas-Santa Clara, in the course of an interview regarding Cuban affairs said:

"Trouble is absolutely out of the question. The future depends largely upon agricultural prosperity, and where work is plentiful wages are good and a country is prosperous no sensible man wishes to alter conditions."

"Any person who publishes reports representing the Cubans as preparing for a rising does so with malicious intent to misrepresent them or because he has been led to believe this by those who know better. The prospects of Cuba are very bright. If sugar goes to the United States free or nearly so, there will be such an influx of capital and of immigrants as would render Cuba ere long one of the richest and most prosperous places in the world."

"The cattle industry yields enormous profits, particularly as respects working cattle, which can never be replaced by mules because the peculiar conditions are better adapted to cattle. Coffee, timber and fruit also offer great inducements to capitalists, and tobacco planting yields almost immediate returns."

"I do not consider that the immediate future of Cuba depends chiefly upon schools, road making, improved sanitation or judiciary reform, although of course these things are of very great importance. The best the United States can do for Cuba and the Cubans is to give every opportunity for improving the value of the land by putting it to the best uses. In this way capital could do an immense amount of good here, as well as get large returns. I suggest supplying cattle for working purposes on a time basis, accepting regular rates of interest, which should be about one per cent. a month. Cattle can be landed here at a cost of $70 a yoke which, once here, would bring more than $150."

"Large numbers of working cattle are required by reliable and hard working men who are anxious to obtain them. Were I man of 25, with energy and some capital, I should certainly look upon Cuba as one of the best places to accumulate wealth."

Gen. Wilson says he has investigated the reports that Mr. Drake, of Chicago, had been endeavoring to foment trouble, and has found these untrue. So far as he is able to judge Mr. Drake is an honorable man, who is in Cuba for a pleasure trip.

Stars and Stripes Torn Down.

Omaha, Neb., March 5.—One of the incidents of the heated municipal campaign which has just closed was the tearing down and destroying of an American flag and the substituting therof for a red flag on a flag pole in Mayor Moore's yard some time Saturday night. Sunday morning the mayor was astounded to see the red cloth flying where erstwhile the stars and stripes floated. As the rope was cut, his honor had to call on the fire department to run up a ladder and take down the red cloth. He then ran up a brand-new American flag to the top of the mast. The work is supposed to have been done by political opponents.

CITIZENS HELPLESS.

Attempt to Be Made to Prevent a Repetition of the Great Johnstown Flood of 1889.

Johnstown, Pa., March 4.—An attempt will soon be made to reforest a large portion of the Conemaugh watershed to prevent damage from freshets or a possible repetition of the Johnstown flood of 1889, when $10,000,000 in property was carried away and nearly one thousand lives were lost. The region is peculiarly liable to freshets, owing to its geological character and the removal of its timber, and as soon as the weather permits, J. W. Toumey, government superintendent of tree planting, and another working plant expert of the government division of forestry will examine the region and decide on a plan of reforestation.

Fires in Spartansburg and Corry, Pa., Cause a Serious Loss to Those Towns.

Corry, Pa., March 5.—The tannery known as the Western Union tannery at Spartansburg, with contents, was destroyed by fire. With no means to fight the fire, the citizens had to stand helplessly by, watching the only industry of the town being destroyed. The loss is $80,000, fully covered by insurance. A hot journal in the drying room is supposed to have caused the fire.

Members of Parliament in a Wreck.

Toronto, Ont., March 4.—The Montreal express on the Canadian Pacific railroad, due here at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, jumped the track between Ponty Pool and Burkton, and bounded down a steep embankment, the coaches toppling over each other as they neared the bottom of the incline. The train was moving at a rapid rate of speed. There were a large number of passengers aboard, many being members of parliament on their way from Ottawa. Twenty-one persons were injured, none of them seriously.

Baldly Benten By a Burglar.

Norfolk, Va., March 5.—George W. Miller, a baker, and his wife were attacked by a burglar while asleep at their home in this city, and so seriously injured that it is feared one or both of them may die. He then took all the money in the house and escaped.

Strike Through Sympathy.

Chicago, March 5.—The union machinists of the Chicago, Lake Shore & Eastern shops, which are in the Illinois steel works yards, have declared a strike, and 125 of these men did not go to work. They are in sympathy with the steel works employees, and will not go back to work, they say, until their grievances are attended to.

Discussed Suffrage Legislation.

Washington, March 5.—An important conference of representative Afro-Americans was held here at which the testing of the suffrage law legislation of the southern states, especially Louisiana, was thoroughly discussed.

Insurance Agents Fell.

Chicago, March 5.—Nearly 30 agents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. received injuries by the collapse of a small grand stand upon which they were being photographed and which fell a distance of ten feet.

FIRST LAFAYETTE DOLLAR.

Robt. J. Thompson, Representing President McKinley, Presents it to President Loubet.

Paris, March 4.—Mr. Robert J. Thompson, secretary of the Lafayette monument commission, as special commissioner of the United States representing President McKinley and in his name presented to President Loubet Saturday morning the first of the Lafayette dollars, which was enclosed in a casket costing $1,000. The presentation took place at the Elysee palace.

Mr. Thompson, accompanied by the United States ambassador, Gen. Horace Porter, drove from the embassy to the palace in the ambassador's carriage. On arriving at the Elysee at 11:45 a.m., they were received by M. Mellard, sub-director of the protocol, and Capt. Haguet, of the French navy, who was the officer on duty. The Americans were conducted to the president's cabinet (study), where M. Loubet was awaiting them. By his side were M. Delesse, minister of foreign affairs, and Gen. Baillie, the chief of the president's military cabinet, several members of the president's household were also present.

London, March 1.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Gen. Buller:

"Lyttleton's Headquarters, March 1.

—9:05 a.m.—Gen. Dundonald, with Natal carabiniers and composite regiments, entered Ladysmith last night."

"The country between me and Ladysmith is reported clear of the enemy. I am now moving on Nelthorpe."

London, March 3.—Lord Roberts, at Osfontein, six or eight miles east of Paardeberg, faces the reformed Boer army, from 5,000 to 6,000 strong. This may be merely a corps of observation, ready to retire on prepared positions. Doubtless it is receiving accretions from the late besiegers of Ladysmith and from other points. Whatever the force may be, Lord Roberts has ample troops to cope with it.

Gen. Porter introduced Mr. Thompson to President Loubet, and the presentation of the dollar was then made by Mr. Thompson in a few appropriate remarks.

FIRE ON THE BOWERY.

Five Persons Burned to Death and Three Injured in a New York Lodging House Blaze.

New York, March 5.—Five persons were burned to death and three were injured in a seven-story lodging house at 44 to 48 Bowery. The dead are: Charles Buttie, 40 years old; John Clark, 50 years old; Edward Doyle, 35 years old; Henry Jackson, colored, 35 years old, and one unidentified man about 50 years old.

Stephen Carney, 75 years old, was burned about the body, face and hands and removed to a hospital in a serious condition; Martin Gallagher, 55 years old, was burned about the face and hands and also removed to a hospital; Edward Walker, 47 years old, was burned, but after having his wound dressed remained at the lodging house.

All the bodies were taken to the morgue.

The damage to the building amounted to about $2,000. The place was conducted by Dominico Milano, and was a cheap Bowery lodging house.

TO REFOREST A WATERSHED.

Attempt to Be Made to Prevent a Repetition of the Great Johnstown Flood of 1889.

Johnstown, Pa., March 4.—An attempt will soon be made to reforest a large portion of the Conemaugh watershed to prevent damage from freshets or a possible repetition of the Johnstown flood of 1889, when $10,000,000 in property was carried away and nearly one thousand lives were lost. RAID ON INSURGENTS.

Five Hundred and Eight Spanish Prisoners Have Been Rescued.

Eight American Soldiers, Two Officers of the Hospital Ship Relief and Three Surrendered Filipino Officers Also Returned.

Washington, March 3.—The navy department has received from Adm. Watson, at Manila, a more detailed account than was furnished by Gen. Otis of Lieut. Gibbons' successful raid into the southern part of Luzon, where the insurgents are said to be making their last stand. Adm. Watson's cablegram is dated Manila, March 1, and is as follows:

"Armed transport Alava received from military governor Sunday. Commissioned immediately; Gibbons in command, with crew and marines from the Brooklyn. Proceeded same day, on information received, to Gulf Rajay. Returned to-day with 508 rescued Spanish prisoners, eight American soldiers, two officers of the hospital ship Relief and three surrendered Filipino officers. Promptness and zeal of Gibbons and detachment highly commended. All well. Boatswain's Mate Jurashka surrendered by insurgents February 16."

The two officers of the hospital ship Relief referred to in Adm. Watson's cablegram are Fred Hoppe, third officer of the ship, and Charles Blandford, assistant engineer. Boatswain's Mate Jurashka was one of five men attached to the gunboat Mariveles, who were captured October 16 last off the southern coast of Luzon while landing non-combatants. Some of the party were badly wounded, one fatally, but Jurashka was captured unharmed.

Adm. Watson's commendation of Lieut. Gibbons' exploit will be placed on the records of the department, and may result in substantial reward for that young officer. He is a native of Michigan, and did much to organize the naval militia forces of the country.

CAVALRY RECALLED.

The Entire Fifth Regiment Now in Porto Rico, Will Soon Be Back in Home Barracks.

Washington, March 3.—Steps have been taken by the war department for the return to the United States of the entire 5th regiment of cavalry now distributed at different posts in Porto Rico. The movement will be made gradually, and so far as possible the vacated posts will be occupied by native troops recruited in Porto Rico. Orders have been issued for four troops of this regiment to be brought to the United States within the next few weeks and stationed at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis.

One battalion of the 5th cavalry will be stationed at Jefferson Barracks, another probably at Ft. Riley, Kan., and another at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. This distribution of the regiment will enable the department to carry out its present intention of having the entire 6th cavalry stationed at posts on the Pacific coast.

Testimony All In.

Washington, March 3.—Just before the adjournment of the senate committee on elections both the prosecution and the defense in the investigation of the election of Senator Clark, of Montana, announced that they had concluded the presentation of testimony. There are some papers to be examined and arguments still to be heard. The investigation began on January 5, and up to date 100 witnesses have been examined. Their testimony will fill between 2,400 and 2,500 pages. The expense to the government so far has been about $27,000.

Ministers Disagree.

London, March 3.—At the Methodist celebration in John Wesley's historic church in London, Mr. Reader Harris, a well-known barrister and the founder of the Pentecostal league, said that Wesley would have sympathized with the aims of Great Britain in South Africa. Rev. Frederick B. Meyer, minister of Christ church, Westminster, who was present, dissented, and a discussion ensued which was not regarded as a pleasant incident.

Charles E. Bates Dead.

New York, March 3.—Chas. E. Bates died at his home in this city of pneumonia. Mr. Bates was best known because of the prizes which he has taken at the horse show and as a breeder of fine horses. He owned a large stock farm in Ohio, where most of the horses that he dealt in were bred from this stock farm which they were brought to New York city.

Siege Battery Moved.

Washington, March 3.—Siege Battery O, 7th artillery, which has been stationed at Washington ever since its organization, has been ordered to Ft. Riley, Kan. The change is made in order to increase the efficiency of the siege battery, which is a new feature in the military organization of the United States.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Richmond, Va., March 3.—Near Wake, in Middlesex county, the boiler of the steam mill of Merchant & Hanson exploded, killing George Steuer and seriously injuring his two sons, Henry and Garland, who was standing by, and his skull crushed and will hardly recover.

Minister Merry at Greytown.

Managua, Nicaragua, March 3.—United States Minister Merry has arrived at Greytown from Costa Rica. He is on the way to attend a conference here with President Zelaya.

Election Wager Echo.

The Woodford county grand jury has indicted sixteen gentlemen who had won money on the election of W. S. Taylor as Governor. It seems that the stakeholders had paid over the money to these gentlemen when Mr. Taylor was installed in office as Governor, but that since Mr. Goebel was declared Governor, the men who lost have clamored for their money, which the gentlemen indicted declined to return.

Several of the amounts involved are quite large, one man winning as much as $600. The aggregate amount is several thousand.

It is stated that one of the Circuit Courts in the Bluegrass region, probably that of Clark, has already decided that stakeholders are liable if they pay over money held by them for betters unless with the full consent of both parties to the wager.

You often hear of buying goods at but you seldom see the opportunity. Now, I am really going to give you a chance to buy a set of furniture at YOUR OWN PRICE. On Monday, February 12th, I placed on exhibition in my show window a handsome Oak Set of Furniture, the real value of which is $65. Now, this is what any dealer would ask you for this Set of Furniture, and it is a good value. On Tuesday the price of this suite will be $64, Wednesday $63 and $1 less for each day it remains in the window, and it will remain there until the price goes to one dollar, unless some one buys before then. You can buy any time the price suits you, provided the other fellow don't beat you to it. Of course, you may want too good a thing and wait too long, but, of course, that will be your fault. Remember every dollar under $65 is a dollar made.

MANHOOD.

He stands the test where souls are tried,
And true honor finds,
Who conquers, manfully, the pride
That rules in feeble minds; the power
Who seeks not rest in life's career,
Nor yet beyond the grave;
Whose heaven is duty's noblest sphere—
Not that which idlers crave.

He covets not the lordling's place,
Nor vainly strives to scan
The Master's mind, but asks for grace
To do his best he can.
His peace not torpor of the soul,
But harmony within—
Renouncing self to reach the goal
And triumph over sin.

Ones on the plow his hand he lays,
His eye ne'er backward turns;
Fortune he seeks in virtue's ways,
Ill-bought success he spurns.
Looking his fellow in the face
He sees God's image there;
What's ever may help to lift the race,
His hand is quick to share;

Meekly he takes life's daily tasks
As part of Heaven's great plan;
This born—aught eschewed—he asks,
To be a manly man.
Angels attend on such an one,
And stars their courses move
Light his pathway to the throne
And garnish it with love.

On the night of August 14 I went below, fully expecting that but a few hours would elapse ere we went to the bottom. Once a while my vitality would assert itself, and a quick apprehension, a living sensibility, would shoot through me like a running dash of driving sparks in burned-out timber, but without enough heat or force to rouse me to action. I slept heavily, as one sleeps in the fumes of burning charcoal, lead to harm or happiness, and was wakened from a dream of feasting by the sound of a report like that made by a bursting sail. Half conscious I crawled to the deck to see what had happened. The dawn was well forward, a strip of bright sky of pearly clearness heralding the sun which was already scattering the clouds aloft. Patches of the deepest blue, flecked with fine vapor-like clotted cream sailing far above the rapidly dissolving storm wrack, foretold fine weather. The wind had sunk to a most a calm, and was blowing a soft warm breath from the west. The sea was a vast series of hills and valleys, their crests no longer like teeth, and so rhythmical was their run that the half-submerged vessel swung with the regularity of a pendulum, only at times a swollen surge brimming over the bows, sending a cascade to the deck. Just visible to the north was a clear, dark, indigo-colored rift of land, which I instantly knew to be Montauk point, and even my dull senses responded to the knowledge of the wonderful drift we had made.

And so, when I appeared before my mother, who, as I feared, had given me over as dead, there was no violence of emotion; only a stunned, ghost-looking look on her white face as I entered her presence and opened my arms to her, and the single articulate cry of "My son! my son!" as she fell into them. It was but little more from my sister, who had been brought up in the same stoical school, and by the time my long story had been told, much as I am telling here, the quiet round of daily life had been regained, the sick and wounded transferred to the small house overlooking the sound, and the doctor, full of protestations as to his good intentions, and yet surly within, installed medical attendant.

After my arrival my earliest business was to clear up my mind of two responsibilities weighing thereon: the first to get word to Gen. Sullivan of the intended move of Sir Henry Clinton, as I feared that by some slip my first message through the Jenny's captain might have miscarried; the second, to have the Phantom's cargo delivered at New London.

said me to the British landed on the island, but with little warning of what was to come. Capt. Scammell with several marines was at the house. Dr. Phillips and Rachel Thordyke were in the main room. Donald had had time to hide himself to await developments. No one seems to have known at the moment what had become of Gertrude. Ames, of course, was still confined to his room.

Without knocking, Scammell entered and demanded that Gertrude be surrendered to him. At that moment the hall door opened and Gertrude entered. Her face was flushed as though just awakened from a nap. Seeing Scammell, she uttered a scream, and turning, fled through the door by which she had just entered, slamming the portal behind her. Rachel placed herself against the door, but one of the marines pulled her rudely away and sprang up the stairs, with Scammell close behind.

As Thordyke appeared on the scene he met a marine, who opposed his advance, but he was shortly laid out by a blow from the butt of a gun. A third marine had attacked the doctor, and Donald dealt with him in the same summary fashion. Then up the stairs to his mother's room, where he knew he would find Gertrude, he rushed.

Ames was leaning against the wall confronted by the marine who had come up with Scammell. In front of the bed stood Gertrude with a cocked pistol in her hand and facing Scammell.

As Donald entered the room, he heard the brave girl say, in answer to some question: "Never alive, sir! Settle with him! I am the promised wife of Donald Thordyke!"

Donald drew his sword, and with the cry: "Turn, you villain, turn!" he smote Scammell across the shoulders with the flat of the blade. As the two men shifted, circling for an advantage, Scammell neared the door, and quickly turning, rushed to the room below. Here there was more room for the play of swords. The officer was clever, but Donald drew him foot by foot. Suddenly throwing his wrist out of line, his point fell off. Like lightning Scammell took the bait; the next instant his sword was spinning through the air. Before the whirling steel reached the ground, Thordyke's blade had passed through the throat of the villain.

In the meantime in the room above the marine had shot at Gertrude. The bullet had missed her, but had done its deadly work on the aged sufferer in the bed. Gertrude fired with her pistol, and the marine lay on the floor dead.

Over the bed, where lay his beloved dead, Donald swore a vengeance which should not cease until his country was rid of the butchers invading it. Ames reached out his hand, and thus was cemented anew the covenant between them.

For the two days the British remained on Martha's Vineyard. Donald and his little party lived in a disused shed deep in the heart of the forest. On the second evening he returned alone to the house, and was surprised to find it still standing, showing no evidence of having been entered since they had fled from it. A crude coffin was constructed and the mother was buried in the woods near the edge of the home lot, Dr. Phillips doing the last offices. And there she still rests, marked by the stone Donald lived to see begin to crumble away under the hand of time.

haven of Holmes Hole and dropped the only anchor we had left, creating a flutter among the inhabitants of the hamlet, who were mightily alarmed at seeing a schooner bearing no flag sail up within gunshot of the shore and round to as though for a broadside. Heretofore they had not been molested, but perhaps it was an inward sense of trouble impending which made them quake at the mysterious action of the Phantom, for barely a fortnight was to elapse ere Grey, the "Hand of Iron," sailed up as I had done, and under the guns of the fleet demanded the usual tribute of blood and an unusual one of forage.

But now, saving a few fishermen drawn up on the beach, there was not a craft in the harbor. The peace of the evening, the quiet beauty of the green land, and the feeling of safety fell on my spirits like a benediction after an impressive sermon, and I breathed as one breathes on waking from the horrors of nightmare. War and danger had vanished as had vanished the storm clouds of the day before, and, indeed, so far as the events of the past few days had affected me, they had been but as a nightmare or as had been the storm to the land, leaving but a few marks to tell of its fearful reality.

In a week I had recovered from the terrible strain to which I had been subjected, noticing only that my head had taken on a few white threads I had never seen before, but my nerves, which had been loosened by the desperate tune circumstance had throned upon them.

I had suddenly shot from an era of conflict to one of peace, I thought, nor did I dream I should be aroused again, unless I voluntarily took the field. I became a hero, too, nor was my notoriety a cheap one. From Edgartown to the heights of Gay's head the fame of my achievements spread, even the half-breed Indians, whose lay about the latter point, being unstinted in their sober congratulations to the "Big Thorne," as I was called by them.

Sailors and those drawing their subsistence from the sea are stolid to apparent indifference as to the fortune, be it good or bad, fate deals out to them. They become inured to the fickleness of the great element which is at once a threat and a mainstay, and the rack of uncertainty on which they are stretched for most of their lives makes wild demonstration impossible, be their joys mighty or their griefs deep.

And so, when I appeared before my mother, who, as I feared, had given me over as dead, there was no violence of emotion; only a stunned, ghost-looking look on her white face as I entered her presence and opened my arms to her, and the single articulate cry of "My son! my son!" as she fell into them. CHAPTER XXVI.—CONCLUSION.

The series of adventures in which Donald Thordyke played so well the part of the hero have now been nearly told. We will record only two more incidents, one when he learned that he was loved by the best woman on earth, and the second, that which brought God's just retribution down on the head of Donald's bitterest enemy.

But no further necessity for heroic action presented itself, and we slipped into the haven of Holmes Hole and dropped the only anchor we had left, creating a flutter among the inhabitants of the hamlet, who were mightily alarmed at seeing a schooner bearing no flag sail up within gunshot of the shore and round to as though for a broadside. Heretofore they had not been molested, but perhaps it was an inward sense of trouble impending which made them quake at the mysterious action of the Phantom, for barely a fortnight was to elapse ere Grey, the "Hand of Iron," sailed up as I had done, and under the guns of the fleet demanded the usual tribute of blood and an unusual one of forage.

Dr. McCary was allowed to roam in and about, Donald thinking he might yet be needed for his skill. Thordyke was anxious for the return of the Phantom, and was now in the habit of daily taking a walk up the gently sloping cap of the cliff, which suddenly breaks away to the sea in an almost sheer precipice, to get, if possible, a glimpse of his craft. Oftentimes on these occasions Gertrude would be with him.

One day Ames asked him to give McCary an overhauling for some papers taken by his sister from Mrs. McCary's desk, which were now missing. Accordingly, when next he met the doctor, he asked him for the papers. McCary had his gun with him, and his gray eyes were bloodshot, betokening a free use of liquor. He started, and the gun slipped from his hand. If there were any doubt before that he was the thief, they were now dispelled. Before he could formulate an answer Thordyke leaped for laid hold of him. With one hand he twisted him around, with the other drew from his breast pocket a mass of papers, then with a finishing push thrust him backward. By the time the sturdy redcoat had gotten to his feet, Donald had found what he wanted, and then walked off with the gun over his shoulder without even looking to see what might be McCary's next move.

A few days later when Donald walked to the cliff Gertrude was with him. He was a hundred feet in advance of her as he reached the brow of the promontory. He gave a shout as he sprang forward, for there, stretching out for miles, vessel after vessel, was the British fleet.

Then he heard behind him a piercing shriek. Turning he saw Gertrude throw herself on the form of McCary, just as he sent a bullet whizzing by his head. In a moment he tore himself from the girl and put off in full flight, and Thordyke after him. They met on the verge of the cliff, from which by a mighty effort the doctor was thrown headlong.

Then, turning, Donald hurried to where the motionless form of Gertrude lay. His passion broke against all restraint, and he poured into her deaf ears the story of his love, and kissed her white lips. Her eyes opened slowly, and he knew she had not been deaf to all he had said. She looked him squarely in the eyes and said: "Donald, have you only courage while in the grip of a murderous monster and—over the body of a lifeless woman? My poor boy—my hero—oh, my love."

On the morning of the 5th of September Mrs. Thordyke was too ill to rise from her bed. John Phillips, the doctor at Edgartown, was called.

"Nothing ails your mother," he said to Donald, "saving the disease of old age. You may have her with you for awhile yet, but she's tender, lad."

Next morning the British landed on the island, but with little warning of what was to come. Capt. Scammell with several marines was at the house. Dr. Phillips and Rachel Thordyke were in the main room. Donald had had time to hide himself to await developments. No one seems to have known at the moment what had become of Gertrude. GENTLEWOMEN FARMERS.

An English Institution Where Women Are Taught the Different Branches of Agriculture.

The Lady Warwick Hostel, at Reading, England, which has just celebrated its anniversary, was established with a view to affording women of culture and education opportunity to fit themselves for the lighter branches of agriculture. Several American women have signified their intention of availing themselves of its instruction. Among the branches taught are poultry and bee keeping, dairy work, gardening and rural industries generally. Two buildings, the Maynard Hostel and Brooke house, for boarding special students have been recently added. Forty-three regular students can be accommodated with tuition and board.

The institution has acres of land under cultivation. Besides this, the warden's garden contains six acres that will be worked as an object lesson to the students, showing what can be done on acre plots of land. A large part of this garden will be devoted to bush fruits, but an acre has been sowed with wheat and a farmyard is to be added. In a large potting shed with a thatched roof, carpenters' benches are included, and the students are taught the fundamental principles of carpentry, in order that they may be able to make frames, poultry houses or do any work of the kind that is required.

A mushroom house and greenhouse were added during the year. A rose garden is to be one of the first innovations of the coming season. The propagation of vines, bush fruits, roses and shrubs, budding, grafting, summer and winter pruning and all kinds of tree planting receive special attention. Training is given in raising all kinds of vegetables and seeds and in the thinning and planting of them.

The culture of tomatoes, cucumbers and mushrooms for market is taught, as the culture of mushrooms is particularly profitable. In the dairy branch the pupils are given instruction in milk testing and the making of the various kinds of soft and pressed and unpreserved cheeses. Besides these, the feeding, management and milking of cows are taught. Poultry keeping is a successful part of the hostel work. The sale of poultry and eggs has amounted since last April to about $220, while food and stock for the year have cost only about $100, and 100 head of poultry are left for table and egg production.

At present the greater proportion of produce raised is consumed in the hostels, but there is already a small private market for anything that can be spared in the way of poultry, eggs, honey and vegetables. By this means experience and training are given in sorting, grading, packing and marketing, and permanent places will be offered later to those who show themselves well-qualified to undertake the work. Branches in the manufacture of jams, pickles, fruit bottling and similar industries will be added later.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Parson Who Milked His Cow. A country parson, who was very bright and original in his remarks, attracted the notice of a wealthy lady who was spending the summer in the vicinity. One evening she called at the parsonage just as the old minister, clad in overalls, was coming in from the stable with a brimming pail of milk.

"Why, Mr. Smith!" exclaimed the lady. "do you milk a cow?"

"Certainly, madam," was the reply. "What would you have me milk?"—Judge.

Bigest Skyscraper of Them All. The three champion skyscrapers of the United States are the Syndicate building on Park row, the Masonic Temple in Chicago and the Exchange building in Boston. These are to be reinforced by a monster structure to be built in Philadelphia by New York and Philadelphia capitalists, which will overshoot all of them. It will encroach a whole block and be the largest office building in the world.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

OUR INCREASE OF INSANITY.

Much discussion has been aroused lately by the alarming increase of insanity. Our high rate of living is the cause assigned. In the rush for money, both men and women neglect their bodies until the breakdown comes. The best way to preserve health is by a faithful use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. By curing all stomach ills, this remedy prevents nervous breakdown. It is also an excellent medicine for constipation, dyspepsia and biliousness.

Against his will he has been obliged to take little homeopathic pills when he would have preferred quinine, to attend the Episcopal church when he preferred the Baptist, and recently his women folks compelled him to be vaccinated by a woman doctor.—Atchison Globe.

6,434 LETTERS A DAY.

The John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., received 6,434 orders Feb. 26, which is a monster day, but they expect to double this number by the middle of March. The firm is having a great trade in its specialties, potatoe, beet, Broccoli, Turnips, Rape, Big Four Oats, Three Eared Corn and earliest vegetables. There is a wonderful demand for onions, turnips, radishes, etc.

Early Bird Radish and Lightning Cabbage, the earliest of this kind in the world, are having a tremendous sale. The firm above mentioned is a large advertiser and use weekly newspapers—that tells the story.

NOT SO SURE.

At a dinner in Rottingdean lately, a royal academician stated to the company the curious fact that sugar and sucre are the only two words in English where su is pronounced shu. There was much interest shown in the discovery, when Rudyard Kipling was heard from the other end of the table: "But, are you quite sure?"—Chicago Chronicle.

The International & Great Northern railway are sending out a map of Texas, Mexico and surrounding territory that is an excellent production of the map engraver's art, both artistically and geographically. The map is made on an unusually large scale, and is near perfect as to details as it is possible to make it. Mr. D. J. Price, general passenger and ticket agent of the system, at Palestine, Texas, is sending copies of this map to anyone who asks for it and encloses seven cents in stamp to pay postage.

POSTED ON FINANCE.

AT LEAST THAT WAS THE IMPRESSION SHE GAVE HER SISTER CLUB MEMBERS.

"IT IS SIMPLY IMPOSSIBLE TO KEEP POSTED ON EVERYTHING," said a club woman to a daughter of the American Revolution.

"Yes, indeed, it is," admitted the D. A. R. "But sometimes, if you are in quite posted, you can wriggle out of a difficult situation without seeming very ignorant. For example, I was just saved by my presence of mind at a D. A. R. meeting the other day. Prof. Sparks, of the university, you know, read a lovely paper on 'Governor Morris, Financier of the American Revolution.'

"Who is this Governor Morris?" said a friend of mine from the Fortnightly club. "Seems to me I never heard of him."

"There were half a dozen women around, and I was frightfully embarrassed. I never had heard of Governor Morris, either, but, you know, a D. A. R. is supposed to know all those things."

"O, don't you remember?" I said. "Morris was the man who financed the government and borrowed a lot of money to do it."

"Thank you," said my friend from the Fortnightly.

"Not the fact is, you know, dear," continued the D. A. R., "I really knew nothing of it whatever, except that Prof. Sparks said that the man had financed the government, and I knew if he did that he must have had to borrow a lot of money."

COULD CHANGE HIS MIND.

Prof. Hendershot is well known in Pittsburgh as a man of absolute temper, and it is rare that he shows even impatience. One day while traveling on a suburban trolley car to call on a friend, he asked the conductor to transfer him to the city street car at a certain point. Soon afterward the car stopped and he was surprised to see outside the very friend he was seeking. He started to leave the car, when the conductor accosted him. "You can't change for your car here," he said, briskly. The professor passed him, taking no notice. "Can't change for your car here," the conductor repeated.

"Not the fact is, you know, dear," continued the D. A. R., "I really knew nothing of it whatever, except that Prof. Sparks said that the man had financed the government, and I knew if he did that he must have had to borrow a lot of money."

TOOK HIM DOWN.

A former commodore-captain of a famous trans-Atlantic line, while friendly and polite to his passengers when below, was very much the reverse if approached on duty. As he happened to be on deck one fine afternoon, a lady, quite unaware of this peculiarity, accosted him with some trifling query as to the probable duration of the favorable weather, was both surprised and indignant to get curtly answered:

"Don't know, ma'am—don't know. Better go and ask the cook."

The lady, though taken somewhat aback, was equal to the occasion, and rejoined:

"Oh, I beg a thousand pardons. Excuse me, pray. I thought I was addressing the cook!"—Collier's Weekly.

WAS IT SHIELDED?

Brake-man.—The trainboy dropped dead in the baggage car a few minutes ago.

Conductor.—Poor fellow! Heart trouble, I suppose.

"I don't think so. He had one of his own cigars in his mouth at the time."—Chicago Evening News.

Fine Figure

Many women lose their girlish forms after they become mothers. This is due to neglect. The cure can be preserved beyond question if the expectant mother will constantly use during the whole period of pregnancy. The earlier its use is begun, the more perfectly will the shape be preserved.

Mother's Friend not only softens and relaxes the muscles during the great strain before birth, but helps the skin to contract naturally afterward. It keeps unsightly wrinkles away, and the muscles underneath retain their pliability.

Mother's Friend is that famous external liniment which banishes morning sickness and nervousness during pregnancy; shortens labor and makes it nearly painless; builds up the patient's constitutional strength, so that emerges from the ordeal without danger. The little one, too, shows the effects of Mother's Friend by its robustness and vigor.

Sold at drug stores for $1 a bottle.

Question Answered.

Yours August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers, and grandmothers, never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliary. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, simulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries. Oct-27-19
